1 Foreword

Dear Conference Participant,

Welcome to the 2018 Congress of the Swiss Political Science Association (SPSA)!

It is our great pleasure to host this year's SPSA annual meeting at the University of Geneva. We are looking forward to a diverse program including the young scholars' forum, numerous panel sessions and a plenary session on "International Migration Governance: Chances and Limits".

In particular, we would like to draw your attention to the plenary session on Monday evening with an introduction by Pierre Maudet, Member of the Geneva cantonal Government, and a keynote speech by Prof. James F. Hollifield (Southern Methodist University, Dallas. As further panel guests, we have invited Prof. Thomas J. Biersteker (The Graduate Institute Geneva), Christiane Kuptsch (International Labour Office), Michele Klein-Solomon (International Organization for Migration) and Ellen Hansen (UN High Commissioner for Refugees).

The plenary session will be followed by an Apéro at the UNIMAIL building and by the conference dinner at the "Café restaurant du Parc des Bastions".

The academic program of the 2018 SPSA conference takes place in the UNIMAIL building. You find the main cafeteria for the lunch at Tuesday in the same building (see map in Section 7).

The conference is generously supported by the Swiss Academy of Humanities and Social Sciences, the University of Geneva's Department of political science and international relations as well as the Republic and Canton of Geneva.

We wish you an enjoyable conference and look forward to fruitful discussions!

Yours sincerely,

Frédéric Varone and Simon Lanz

3 Plenary

The conference's guiding theme in 2018 is International Migration Governance: Chances and Limits. Unlike with flows of goods and finance, where states have established global institutions to coordinate their policies, no parallel development has taken place with regard to the international mobility of persons. Apart from an increasingly contested regime for the protection of refugees created after World War Two, very little cooperative action has emerged to address large movements of refugees and migrants. In times of rising nationalist tendencies in domestic constituencies, the limits of unilateral and uncoordinated national policies become more and more salient. Why is it so difficult to achieve international governance over this key area of states' interdependence, and under which conditions may we see meaningful international cooperation develop? These are the questions that will be addressed in the keynote speech and subsequent round table.

After an introductory address by Pierre Maudet, Prof. James F. Hollifield will deliver a keynote speech on the Chances and Limits of Global Migration Governance. James Hollifield is Ora Nixon Arnold Fellow in International Political Economy, Prof. in the Department of Political Science, and Director of the Tower Center at Southern Methodist University in Dallas, Texas, as well as a member of the New York Council on Foreign Relations and a Global Fellow at the Woodrow Wilson International Center in Washington, DC. Hollifield has served as an Advisor to various governments in North and South America, Europe, East Asia and the Middle East and Africa, as well as the United Nations, the World Bank, the IDB, the OECD, the ILO, the IOM, the EU, and other international organizations. He currently chairs working groups at the World Bank and the IDB and serves on the International Advisory Board of the National Center for Competence in Research (NCCR "on the move") of the Swiss National Science Foundation.

The keynote speech will be followed by a round table discussion. Next to Prof. Hollifield, the participants are high representatives from the main international organizations dealing with migration and Prof. Thomas J. Biersteker from the Graduate Institute, Geneva. Michele Klein-Solomon is Director responsible for the Global Compact for Migration within the Office of the Director General at the International Organization for Migration (IOM), Christiane Kuptsch is Senior Specialist in Migration Policy, Labour Migration Branch of the International Labour Office (ILO), and Ellen Hansen is Senior Policy Adviser to the Assistant High Commissioner for Protection (UNHCR). Thomas J. Biersteker is Prof. of International Relations/Political Science, Curt Gasteyger Chair in International Security and Conflict Studies and founder of the Global Governance Center at the Graduate Institute. The round table is moderated by Sandra Lavenex, Prof of European and International Politics at the University of Geneva and the Global Studies Institute. (Room M S150, Monday 17h00–18h40)

4 Young Scholars Forum

Event 1: Why Pursue a PhD?

The first event aims at presenting the PhD in political science to master students who wish to pursue a PhD and to early PhD students who would like to benefit from the experiences of more advanced PhD students. In particular, the objective of this roundtable is to discuss the different modalities (funding, SNF grants etc.) of doing a PhD and their implications on the daily work. More broadly, this event will be a unique opportunity to share experiences and to respond to practical questions of the PhD in political science. (Room M 4276, Monday 10h00–11h00, language French)

- Prof. Pascal Sciarini, Professor of political science (UNIGE) and director of the doctoral program in political science (CUSO)
- Fanny Badache, Assistante diplômée (Unil)
- Roberto DiCapua, Doctorant FNS (Unil)
- Moderation : Edoardo Guaschino, Assistant diplômé (Unil)

Event 2: Career Paths Outside Academia

This year's Young Scholars Forum invites doctoral and postdoctoral scholars to discuss on how to plan a successful career outside academia. To this aim we invited five political science PhD alumni who work in different fields to share their experience with us and discuss how the skills they acquired during the PhD are helpful in their current jobs. Moreover, our guests will provide an impression of their daily work and describe the decisions that proved to be decisive for their careers. (Room M 1170, Monday 10h30–12h00, language English)

- Dr Michael Buess , Project leader "Social Research", DemoSCOPE
- Dr Sarah Bütikofer, researcher at the University of Zurich, free journalist and editor of the political and social science knowledge transfer platform DeFacto.
- Dr Katharina Füglistner, Department for Home Affairs, specialist for Health insurance
- Dr Anna Kalbhenn, Economist, European Central Bank
- Dr Nino Landerer, Business Analyst (Analyses Banking Operations), Swiss National Bank
- Moderation and organization: Dr Flavia Fossati, post-doctoral researcher, University of Lausanne, IDHEAP and nccr-on the move
